Lecture notes

Also the guest lecture by Chelsea St. Clair!

Segijn et al. (2017)

- What is media multitasking?
- Multi-layered concept of relatedness
 - Task relevance, congruency, repetition
- Why is it difficult to media multitask?
 - Capacity interference
 - Structural interference

Chapter 5 - attitude change

- Yale reinforcement approach
 - Lasswell's model (who says what to whom with what effect)
- McGuire's Model of Persuasion
 - Hierarchy of effects model
- Cognitive Response Model
- Dual Process Theories
- Unimodel

Know general ideas of these models

You should be able to apply them to an ad (similar to the in-class exercise)

Chapter 5

Know the Dual Process Theories in more detail:

- The difference with the cognitive response model
- Difference between central/peripheral route or systematically/heuristically processing of information
- When are people taking the central and when the peripheral route?
- The consequences of taking one or the other route of processing (stable vs. unstable attitude change)

Chapter 6 (planned behavior)

Know the Theory of Planned Behavior!

- What is the direct predictor of PLANNED behavior?
- Know concepts: intention, attitude, social norm, perceived behavioral control (self-efficacy)
- Know the beliefs that belong to these concepts: Behavioral beliefs, normative beliefs, efficacy beliefs)
 - Make sure you can think of an example of each belief
- Understand what belief you should target in a campaign
- Understand why campaigns target beliefs

Chapter 6 (unplanned behavior)

- What is the biggest predictor of UNPLANNED behavior?
- What is automaticity?
- Priming
 - subliminal vs. supraliminal
- Habits, goal dependent automaticity, brand loyalty
- Ego-depletion & impulse behavior

Chapter 7

Make sure you can explain them in your own words + provide an example

- Reciprocity
 - Door-in-the-face technique
 - That's-not-all technique
- Commitment/consistency
 - Foot-in-the-door technique
 - Bait-and-switch technique
 - Low-ball technique
 - Four walls technique
- Social validation (consensus)
- Friendship/Liking
- Authority
- Scarcity
- Confusion

Know under what circumstances these principles are effective

Chapter 7

Other concepts:

- Compliance
 - When is compliance most effective?
- Social proof, reference group
- Heuristics
 - Recognition principle
 - Sufficiency principle
 - Least effort principle
- Knowledge structures: associative network, scripts

Schiffman & Kanuk (2x)

- Segmentation
 - State vs. trait
- Subculture
 - Value vs. norm
- Social class
 - Upward/downward mobility
- Consumer socialization
- Intergenerational socialization

Guest video Chelsea St. Clair

- The different reasons why it is important to have diverse teams working in the industry

I hope you enjoyed her lecture that she specifically recorded for our group!
Don't hesitate to let her know by sending a thank you note.

Strycharz et al. (2019)

- Personalization
 - Email marketing
 - Online behavioral advertising
 - Social media advertising
 - Apps and notifications
 - On-site personalization
 - Customization
 - Price differentiation
- Data
 - First, second, third party data
 - Deterministic vs. probabilistic data
- Privacy paradox
- Personalization paradox
- Privacy calculus theory
- Self-referencing theory

Segijn (2019)

- Synced advertising
- Data collection techniques
 - Segmentation, social media analytics, IP-matching, watermarking, and geofencing
- Opportunities
 - Increased chance of exposure
 - Chance of repeated exposure
 - Synergy effects
- Challenges
 - Capacity interference
 - Perceived surveillance & creepiness
 - Social contract theory
 - Accuracy trade-off

Van Ooijen et al. (2017)

- Packaging as the silent salesperson
- Embodied cognition
 - Anthropomorphism & familiarity
 - Image schemas & symbolism
 - Meaningful sensory experiences
 - Embodiment in movement and action
- When is shape most effective?

Exam 2 review Q&A
Dual process theories

Two ways (dual) to process a message

Central Route / systematic processing

- Thinking
- Cognitive effort
- Elaborate on message arguments
(similar to cognitive response model)

Peripheral Route / heuristic processing

- Using shortcuts (heuristics)
- Low effort

Processing depends on:

ABILITY

Are you able to process the message?

- Enough energy
- Necessary knowledge
- Not distracted

MOTIVATION

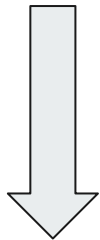

Do you want to process the message?

- Are you interested?
- Are you highly involved?
- Do you care?

Three differences between the routes:

1. Amount of cognitive effort to process a message
2. Type of information used to draw conclusions
3. The results
